SYNTHETIC DEVELOPMENT RECORD — NOT A REAL STUDENT

Student / Collection Information

Student:	Jordan Ellis
Date of Birth:	2013-06-12
Grade:	6
School:	Synthetic Middle School
District:	Synthetic District
Document Date:	2025-10-03
Document Type:	Classroom behavior tracking / observation
Observation Window:	2025-09-08 through 2025-10-03
Instructional Weeks Observed:	4

This log records classroom observation data for Jordan Ellis. It is observation data. It is not a Functional Behavior Assessment conclusion and does not determine the function of behavior.

Target Behavior

Target behavior: task refusal / disengagement.

Operational Definition

After an independent written task is presented, Jordan puts materials aside, verbally refuses, puts head down, or leaves the assigned work area for at least 30 seconds without beginning the requested task.

Ordinary incorrect answers and asking for help are not coded as task refusal. The 30-second operational-definition threshold is a coding cutoff. It does not mean that every episode lasted exactly 30 seconds.

Observation Table

Date	Setting	Task/activity	Antecedent	Observed behavior	Duration	Staff response	Task resumed
2025-09-08	Language arts	Independent written response to a grade-level passage	Independent written task presented after whole-group reading	Put materials aside and put head down	2 min	Prompted to begin; offered to reread the prompt	No

Total task-refusal episodes: 17

Instructional weeks observed: 4 (four instructional weeks). Average: 4.25 episodes per week. The four-week observation period is a window, not an incident count.

Setting Notes

Thirteen episodes occurred during independent written language arts. Three episodes occurred during independent written social studies. One episode occurred during an independent science lab write-up.

No task-refusal episodes were observed during three small-group mathematics observations.

The mathematics observations and the independent written-task observations may both be true. Difference by setting is a context difference. This log does not treat those settings as contradictory.
