Reason for Evaluation

This speech-language evaluation was completed on 2024-10-22 as part of the initial evaluation related to a reading fluency concern. The purpose is to determine whether a separate speech-language educational need is present. The documented reading concern has not been resolved by this evaluation.

Communication Observations

Maya participated in conversational and structured language tasks during the evaluation. Speech intelligibility is adequate for classroom participation. Receptive and expressive language observed during the evaluation are broadly functional for classroom communication. No speech-language impairment is diagnosed in this report.

Educational Interpretation

Speech intelligibility is adequate for classroom participation. Receptive and expressive language observed during the evaluation are broadly functional for classroom communication. No separate speech-language educational need is identified from this evaluation. The documented reading-fluency concern remains; this evaluation does not identify a separate speech-language need.

Recommendation

Continue to address the documented reading concern through the educational evaluation process. No speech-language service is recommended.

This report does not determine special education eligibility.
